THE OLD PHARMACY BY JOHN SCHMITT

Take a look inside at the photos of the old/current/future building that many of us have known as the "Rexall" building, but which started out life long before that. Local historian John Schmitt has a retrospective and has provided us with the history and photos of the building as well as the recently discovered pristine ceiling tin. They look as beautiful as the day they were installed.

JACK'S CAFE CLOSING FOR SEPTEMBER

Congratulations to Noel and Edna. Their son, Nowieh is getting married and so is his cousin, JayJay. Both of those boys spent years here and now they are getting married in the Philippines. The whole family is going to be there for two weddings, that is why Jack's is closing temporarily. We're so happy for them!

The "Pharmacy" Building History by John Schmitt

Exciting news happening in Eastend, The first picture shows what half of the building known as the old pharmacy on Maple Ave. looked like back in the day. Built in 1913 by Ed Youngberg and W. McPherson as a hardware store. In 1916 it was added on to as a furniture and hardware store. It was sold to Ross Smith in 1953 and in 1955 Glen Smith would come home from overseas and join Ross in business. In 1964 the building was enlarged to twice the size, as it is now. The name of the store was the Sunset Store. In 1969, each went their own way Glen with furniture and Ross with hardware. In 1976 Gary and [Dorothy Karst would buy it and open a pharmacy. They sold to Lori and Garth Hemming in 1983. Steve and Julia Lacey are the owners now with very exciting plans! Please check out the photos.

Here are their plans:

Julie says When we moved back home two years ago we always thought it was such a shame to have a vacant property at such a prime location. We decided to purchase the old Pharmacy in July 2025 and completely renovate the exterior and interior of the building. We are still in the planning stage, but we plan to divide the building into several smaller units which will be available for lease by mid 2026. Ideally the two front units would be retail type businesses and we also plan to make two units at the back for office or personal services. The idea is to provide a new fresh space for local entrepreneurs and hopefully start attracting more small business to our community. We appreciate the historical aspect of this building and will do our best to save some of the original materials such as the beautiful original pressed tile ceiling and shiplap lumber to incorporate into the finishes of the new space.

I say look at the beautiful tin ceiling.

The last pic is a computer rendering of what the future holds. I wish Steve and Julia all the best. So great to see all the things happening in our little town.
